

ABSTRACT

The invention provides a method and means for projecting signs onto printed matter, without physically changing the printed matter. The method is especially useful for projecting signs on holy scripts such as the Torah, for aid of its reading.